

□ Dr. Jiri Priban

Is there the Spirit of European Laws?

Critical Remarks on EU Constitution-making, Enlargement and Political Culture.

Wednesday, September 26, 2007
270 Stephens Hall
12 noon

Jirí Pribán is a Professor at the Faculty of Law at the Cardiff Law School at the University of Wales, where he teaches courses on jurisprudence and the sociology of law. He has also worked as a research fellow/visiting professor at the law schools of the University of San Francisco, Charles University, and the University of Pretoria. Jirí Pribán has published extensively in the areas of sociology of law, legal philosophy, constitutional and European comparative law, and theory of human rights.

Sponsored by the Institute of Slavic, East European, and Eurasian Studies; Center for the Study of Law and Society, and the Institute of European Studies.

For more information, call ISEEES at (510) 642-3230.