Please join the Boalt Disability Law Society, the Thelton E. Henderson Center for Social Justice, and the UC Berkeley Disabled Students Union for a panel discussion on Disability Rights and the Obama Administration. President Obama made unprecedented overtures to the disability community during his campaign and recently delivered on his promise to appoint a Disability Policy Director to the White House. Come learn about disability rights and how they fit into the broader civil rights picture by hearing from some of the most prominent disability rights activists on the local and national level.
