

LEAVES THAT PAY

Employer and Worker Experiences with Paid Family Leave in California

A new study shows that California's Paid Family Leave program – that offers paid leave to workers when they take time off to care for a new child or sick family member – has received high marks from employers and employees alike since its implementation six years ago.

The authors call for an expansion of Paid Family Leave to build on its early successes, and for efforts to promote increased awareness of it across California.

Join us for a discussion with the authors about this exciting new study and opportunities for the future.

FEATURED SPEAKERS

Ruth Milkman

Professor of Sociology at the City University of New York (CUNY) Graduate Center and Academic Director of CUNY's Murphy Labor Institute.

Eileen Appelbaum

Senior Economist at the Center for Economic and Policy Research (CEPR) in Washington, DC.

COMMENTS BY

Catherine Albiston

Professor of Law and Professor of Sociology, UC Berkeley and affiliated faculty Berkeley CHEFS

Sylvia Guendelman

Professor of the Department of Community Health and Human Development and Chair of the Maternal and Child Health Program at the School of Public Health, UC Berkeley

MODERATOR

Ann O'Leary

Executive Director Berkeley CHEFS

DATE

Friday, May 6, 2011

TIME

12:30 PM—2:00 PM

VENUE

Goldberg Room
UC Berkeley School of Law
215 Boalt Hall
Berkeley, CA 94720

LUNCH WILL BE SERVED

RSVP

CHEFS@law.berkeley.edu

EVENT SPONSORS:

Labor Project for
Working Families

BerkeleyLaw

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA

Berkeley Center on Health,
Economic & Family Security