

THE ENVIRONMENTAL LAW SOCIETY AND THE INSTITUTE FOR LEGAL RESEARCH present

“MOVING TOWARD STRINGENCY IN EMISSIONS TRADING: THE PROBLEM OF SLACK CAPS”

LESLEY K. MCALLISTER

Professor of Law
University of San Diego Law School

Tuesday, November 13, 2007
Goldberg Room
12:45 pm

Professor Lesley K. McAllister teaches and conducts research in the areas of environmental law, property law, and comparative and international law. She graduated with distinction from Stanford Law School and received a Ph.D. from the Energy and Resources Group at UC Berkeley, focused on environmental law and regulation. Before joining the University of San Diego law faculty, Professor McAllister clerked for the Honorable Fern M. Smith of the Northern District of California and also worked for Earthjustice and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Office of Regional Counsel in San Francisco.

Professor McAllister's book, "Making Law Matter: Environmental Protection and Legal Institutions in Brazil," is forthcoming from Stanford University Press. Other recent publications include "Litigating Climate Change at the Coal Mine," in Adjudicating Climate Change: Sub-National, National, and Supra-National Approaches (forthcoming); "Beyond Playing 'Banker': The Role of the Regulatory Agency in Emissions Trading," Administrative Law Review; "Putting Persuasion Back in the Equation: Compliance in Cap and Trade Programs," Pace Environmental Law Review; and "Judging GMOs: Judicial Application of the Precautionary Principle in Brazil," Ecology Law Quarterly.