Jon M. Van Dyke has been Professor of Law at the William S. Richardson School of Law, University of Hawai'i, since 1976, where he teaches constitutional law, international law, international ocean law, and international human rights. Previously he taught at the Hastings College of the Law, University of California (1971-1976), and Catholic University Law School (1967-1969) in Washington, DC. He has served as Associate Dean at the University of Hawai'i's Law School (1980-1982) and as Director of the University's Spark M. Matsunaga Institute of Peace (1988-1990). He earned his J.D. degree at Harvard (1967) and his B.A. degree at Yale (1964), both cum laude, and was a law clerk for Roger L. Traynor, Chief Justice of the California Supreme Court (1969-70).

Professor Van Dyke has written or edited eight books and has authored many articles on constitutional law and international law topics, including Freedom for the Seas in the 21st Century: Ocean Governance and Environmental Harmony (co-edited, Island Press 1993), which received the Harold and Margaret Sprout Award from the International Studies Association for excellence in the field of international environmental policy. Professor Van Dyke has engaged in important litigation on constitutional rights in the state and federal courts of Hawai'i as well as the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, the Supreme Courts of the Federated States of Micronesia, the Marshall Islands, and Palau, and the Administrative Tribunal of the Asian Development Bank. He has served as a consultant for numerous local and national governments. He is a member of the editorial boards of Marine Policy and The International Journal of Marine and Coastal Law, and is on the advisory board of the Center for International Environmental Law and the Law of the Sea Institute. In 1987 he received the University of Hawai'i Presidential Citation for Excellence in Teaching; and in 1984, 1993, 1996, and 2002 he was selected as the "Outstanding Professor" at the Law School.
