

Celebrating the Publication of Philip Selznick's

A Humanist Science: Values and Ideals in A Social Inquiry
(Stanford University Press, 2008)

and

Honoring the 30th Anniversary of the Jurisprudence & Social Policy Program

Welcome

Jonathan Simon, Associate Dean for the Jurisprudence & Social Policy Program

Lauren Edelman, Director, Center for the Study of Law and Society

Comments

Sanford Kadish, Dean, & Alexander F. and May T. Morrison Professor of Law, Emeritus, University of California, Berkeley

Marianne Constable, Professor of Rhetoric, University of California, Berkeley

Philippe Nonet, Professor of Law, Emeritus, University of California, Berkeley

Kenneth Winston, Lecturer in Ethics, Faculty Chair, Singapore Program, Harvard Kennedy School

"From TVA to A Humanist Science and everything in between"

Martin Krygier, Professor of Law & Co-Director, Centre for Interdisciplinary Studies of Law, University of New South Wales, and Author, Philip Selznick: Ideals in the World
(forthcoming, Stanford University Press)

Reply

Philip Selznick, Professor of Law and Sociology, Emeritus, University of California, Berkeley, Founding Director of the Center for the Study of Law and Society, Founding Chair of the Jurisprudence and Social Policy Program (JSP), Former Chair of the Dept. of Sociology

Reception Follows

*****

Tuesday, November 18, 2008

4:30p to 6:30p

The Goldberg Room

University of California, Berkeley, School of Law