

ANNE QUINTIN
Public Affairs Officer
International Committee of the Red Cross

ICRC

Anne Quintin recently joined the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) delegation in Washington, DC, to liaise with academia in North America on International Humanitarian Law. Between 2008 and 2011, she worked at the ICRC Headquarters in Geneva as Head of Project in the Civil Society Relations Unit, and co-edited the 3rd Edition of How Does Law Protect in War alongside Marco Sassoli and Antoine Bouvier.

Prior to joining the ICRC, she worked for the International Institute of Humanitarian Law in Sanremo and in Geneva.

Ms. Quintin graduated in Politics, Philosophy and Economics from the University of Kent (England). She holds a masters degree from the Institut d'Etudes Politiques de Lille (France) and an LL.M in International Humanitarian Law from the Geneva Academy of International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights.