Required Texts:

Hecht, Effective Depositions 2nd ed. (ABA 2010) ["Hecht"]

NOTE: I arranged with my publisher, the American Bar Association (ABA), for a 40% discount for purchases by my students of the text from the Law School bookstore. The Law School bookstore adds its own mark up to the discounted price of the text.

Hecht, Scoops v. Business-Aide-Inc.: A Liability and Damages Case File 5th ed. (2009) ["Scoops"]

NOTE: The Scoops case file will be provided by the instructor in class. Due to budget constraints, large volume copying is no longer provided by the Law School at no cost to students. "Hard" copies of the Scoops case file are being provided to each student at my actual cost of copying (without the mark up charged by the Law School bookstore for course readers). The cost per student is $20.00. Payment either in cash or by a check, made to the order of Henry L. Hecht, should be made by no later than the fourth class of the semester on Wednesday, 9/12/2012.

2012 Federal Rules of Civil Procedure (LexisNexis 2012) and 2012 Federal Rules of Evidence (LexisNexis 2012)

NOTE: These pocket editions will be provided by the instructor at no cost, compliments of LexisNexis.

Grading:

The course will be graded using the standard, required Berkeley Law curve. Grading will be based on the following: 1. class participation (25%); 2. two short, graded written assignments (a. a debrief of the witness preparation role plays, and b. a video-self critique) (25%); and the Final Paper (50%).

Class participation includes your attendance and participation in both class and the individual video review session with the instructor, described below. The quality of your work on non-graded written assignments, in-class exercises, the simulation role plays, and the insightfulness of your post-role play analysis will also be considered and will affect your grade. The course is not “blind graded.”

Class Hours, Attendance Policy, and Drop/Add Period:

The class meets on Wednesdays, from 3:35 p.m. to 6:15 p.m., in the Boalt Hall room 115, unless otherwise announced.

Due to the use of role play exercises (simulations) throughout the semester, which depend on each student playing an assigned role, class attendance is mandatory. Absences and/or lateness will be noted and may result in a lower grade. If you are going to be absent or late for any reason, please notify me as soon as possible before class so that I may plan accordingly.

In addition, due to the use of role plays throughout the course and the need to determine the members of the class as soon as possible, the usual provisions of "Drop/Add" do not apply. You must decide whether you will enroll by no later than Tuesday afternoon, August 28, 2012, the last day of the first full week of classes for the fall semester.

Individual Video Critiques:

Each week when a deposition role play is conducted, takers and defenders will be video recorded and the videos will be posted on the course bSpace page for your review. You will be expected to review your own video in order to prepare a written self-critique. (I will provide instructions before the recordings begin.) I will then meet with the takers and defenders in a private review session. By the end of the semester, I will have met with each student for a video review session at least one time.

Court Reporters and Transcripts of Your Depositions:

Through arrangements with Ana Fatima Costa Consulting, court reporters will attend the role playing deposition exercises and transcribe the testimony. Your transcript will be provided at no cost to you.

Undergraduates to Play the Roles of the Witnesses:

In order to make the witness preparation and deposition role plays as realistic as possible, I am trying to arrange for undergraduate Legal Studies majors to play the witness roles. I will let you know before the first role play if they are available. If not, students on each side of the case will rotate in the role of the witness.

Computers in the Classroom:

This class is an interactive one. Critical to the pedagogy is the active participation of everyone. The expectation in this class is that if you are using a computer during class, you are using it in “good faith” to enhance your learning experience in this class and not for any other purpose.

Journals:

I recommend that you keep a personal journal throughout the semester. You will find that journal writing is an important way to enrich your learning experience. Much of your learning in this class will be through self-critique—reflecting on your subjective experience in a structured learning environment. A journal will help you to facilitate the integration of subjective experience with the content of the course. A journal will also allow you to follow your progress and may be useful to you in practice as you look back on your experience in this class.

There is no one way to keep a journal, and you do not need to spend excessive time writing. Entries can be short. Track your attitudes about your lawyering skills—the theories, the practice, your style, and that of your classmates. It is best to record your thoughts as soon as possible so that the experience is fresh in your mind. Your journal will assist you in "learning by doing." Journals are personal and confidential and, thus, will not be collected.

Finally as a practical note, I recommend that you keep your journal in a three-ring notebook. The notebook can also be used to hold the Scoops case file and the numerous other handouts distributed during the semester.
