THE HONORABLE G. WILLIAM AND ARIADNA MILLER INSTITUTE FOR GLOBAL CHALLENGES AND THE LAW

Since 2007, the Honorable G. William and Ariadna Miller Institute for Global Challenges and the Law has been at the heart of Berkeley Law's international enterprise. Founded and supported by the generosity of G. William and Ariadna Miller, the Institute is a research, teaching, and policy center on international and comparative law. Through interdisciplinary collaborations and institutional partnerships, the Miller Institute addresses urgent challenges that demand creative global approaches, including promoting constitution building and the rule of law, and reconceptualizing armed conflict and the use of force.

THE HONORABLE G. WILLIAM MILLER (1925-2006)

A celebrated Berkeley Law alumnus ('52), G. William Miller served as Secretary of the Treasury under President Carter and 11th Chairman of the Federal Reserve. He was an officer in the US Coast Guard, and led a distinguished career in business and investment banking.

Miller was a lifelong supporter of Berkeley Law, serving on the school's Campaign Cabinet. As national chairman of the Distinguished Professors Project in 1986, he helped raise $1.2 million to endow chairs honoring Berkeley Law professors. Miller was also the 1979 recipient of the Citation Award, the Boalt Hall Alumni Association's highest honor, and was recognized with the UC Berkeley Foundation Trustee's Citation in 1987.

He was deeply committed to enabling work to promote the rule of law as a means to ensure that nations share a set of values without sacrificing their individual cultures. The Miller Institute seeks to further his vision.

THE RIESENFELD AWARD AND SYMPOSIUM

October 7, 2016

Organized by the Berkeley Journal of International Law and sponsored by the Miller Institute for Global Challenges and the Law

One of the great traditions at Berkeley Law is the Stefan Riesenfeld Award and Symposium, which allows students, alumni, faculty, and staff to come together to recognize and celebrate achievement in international law.

STEFAN A. RIESENFELD MEMORIAL AWARD 2016

The Riesenfeld Award is given to a distinguished scholar or practitioner who has made outstanding contributions to the field of international law and who has demonstrated a commitment to the values that Professor Riesenfeld espoused. The 2016 honoree was David Wright, Secretary General, International Organization of Securities Commissions (2012-2016).

*David Wright
2016 Riesenfeld Award winner*

RIESENFELD SYMPOSIUM PANEL ON “BUSINESS WITHOUT BORDERS: REGULATING GLOBAL FINANCE”

The symposium featured a keynote speech by David Wright, as well as two panels. The first on “Enforcement of Securities Regulations in Cross-Border Transactions” featured Professor Jill Fisch, Berkeley Law; Alexis Coll-Very, Simpson Thacher & Bartlett; James Kreissman, Simpson Thacher & Bartlett; and Marianne Olson, SEC Office of International Affairs. Speakers at the panel on “Compliance Issues in Cross-Border Financial Transactions” included Aaron Tidman, Anti-Corruption Counsel, Gilead Sciences; Professor Stavros Gadinis, Berkeley Law; and John McKenzie, Baker & McKenzie.

*Mari Sahakyan ('17)
BJIL Co-Editor-in-Chief*

STEFAN A. RIESENFELD (1908-1999)

Stefan Riesenfeld ('37) was a Berkeley Law professor and recognized authority in numerous legal specialties including international law, comparative law, property law, creditors' remedies and bankruptcy, administrative law, and legal history. A native of Germany, he came to Berkeley in 1935 to earn a law degree. Speaking German, French, and Italian and with two European law degrees to his credit, he learned English only while studying at Boalt Hall. Nonetheless he graduated on time and near the top of his class, and went on to receive a doctorate in law at Harvard. Professor Riesenfeld joined the Berkeley faculty in 1952 after teaching at Harvard and the University of Minnesota.

He served as a legal advisor in the Panama Canal treaty negotiations, the recognition of Taiwan, and the Iran hostage case. While in his 70s, he represented the United States in three major cases before the International Court of Justice. As civilian legal advisor with the US Office of the High Commissioner in the mid-1940s, he helped prepare the West German constitution. He also wrote the statute for Hawaii's workers' compensation regulations and helped develop human rights litigation in the United States.

Each year, the Miller Institute supports a symposium and an award in Professor Riesenfeld's name to keep alive his commitment to rigorous scholarship in international law and his devotion to public service.

PARTNERSHIP WITH THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

Berkeley Law, through the Miller Institute, is an Academic Partner of the American Society of International Law (ASIL), which provides recognition, participation, promotion, education, and access opportunities for our students and faculty.

For the last five years, the Miller Institute has awarded funding to a Student Fellow to attend the ASIL Annual Meeting in Washington DC, the largest and most important gathering each spring of international law practitioners, policymakers, and scholars. With support from Berkeley Law's Advanced Degree Programs Office, we were able to expand the Fellowship Program to send two students to the meeting.

Berkeley Law faculty and alumni have a rich history of leadership in ASIL. Professor Saira Mohamed acted as Co-Chair of the 2017 ASIL Annual Meeting Program Committee and Kate Jastram, Berkeley Law lecturer and former Miller Institute Executive Director, served on the 2017 Program Committee. Professor Laurel Fletcher is a vice-chair of the Transitional Justice and Rule of Law Interest Group (elected in March 2017). Members of the current Executive Council include David Caron ('83) (past president of ASIL and director emeritus of the Miller Institute), Jeff Bleich ('89), Joan Donoghue ('81), and Cymie Payne ('89).

A number of Berkeley Law alumni have spoken at the past two meetings, including Hassan Ahmad (LLM '16), Tom Ginsburg (PhD '99), and Naomi Roht-Arriaza ('90). David Caron ('83) gave the 2017 Charles N. Brower Lecture on International Dispute Resolution.

2016 FELLOWS

Jessica Caplin (JD '16)

"For three days, I had the great fortune to listen to some of the world's leading experts and practitioners in the fields of national security, human rights, humanitarian law, and international migration. From heated debates on the Iran nuclear deal, to the new Legal Adviser Brian Egan's step-by-step explanation of the US government's rationale for the fight against ISIL, to unanswerable questions about the future of the world's refugees, I was able to witness and learn from the cutting edge of international law. Where seemingly divergent fields are often siloed into discrete papers, presentations, and careers, the ASIL conference – with its array of topics and continuous flow of events – allowed me to explore the breath of public international law within a single venue."

Ivana Stradner (JSD '16)

"As a doctoral student at UC Berkeley School of Law writing a dissertation on the use of force in international law, I could not ask for a better way to strengthen my research than to attend panel discussions particularly focused on the intersection of international law and security. The heated debate among panelists with different career backgrounds during "The Iran Nuclear Deal as a New Model of International Lawmaking?" panel has proved to me that it is difficult, if not impossible, to understand international law without putting it in its strategic, historical, and political context.

...Several panelists shared with me valuable academic career advice strengthening my belief that international law and academia are my future calling."

2017 FELLOWS

Lydia Sinkus (JD '17)

“The breadth of panels...provided new insights in my area of interest – human rights, migration, and international criminal law – while giving me the chance to explore new international law topics.

While this was my first ASIL meeting, it seemed to me a particularly interesting year for such a gathering. With the US president’s anti-globalism rhetoric, but recent pivots on international engagement, there was much to discuss on the value of international law....Experts on these thought-provoking panels explained existing doctrine and legal regimes, but also posited outstanding questions and problems without clear-cut answers. For me, these discussions reaffirmed the role of international law in the world today. They also reminded me how truly exciting it is to participate in a field that is ever-evolving and creatively addressing new global social, political, and economic issues.”

Vittorio de' Medici-Rodrigues (JSD '18)

“‘Never give up...’ these were the concluding words of Benjamin Ferencz, the last surviving prosecutor of the Nuremberg Trials, during the closing session of the 2017 Annual Meeting of the American Society of International Law. He reminded the audience that, despite its myriad flaws, international law has made significant accomplishments. Yet much remains to be done, and it is upon all of us to continue the path set by those who dared to change the status quo, even when facing great uncertainty and peril. And so, his concluding words become a mantra not just to international law practitioners and scholars, but to all of us. We all bear the responsibility – and privilege – to create a better world.”

REACHING OUT TO INTERNATIONAL LAW STUDENTS AND ALUMNI

WELCOME RECEPTION FOR INCOMING INTERNATIONAL LAW STUDENTS – SEPTEMBER 1, 2015 & AUGUST 29, 2016

For the past five years, the Miller Institute has hosted a reception to welcome incoming JD, LLM, and JSD students interested in international law. Students had the opportunity to meet members of the international and comparative law faculty, 2/3Ls, and international law student groups, such as the Berkeley Journal for International Law and the Boalt Hall Committee for Human Rights.

CERTIFICATE OF SPECIALIZATION IN INTERNATIONAL LAW

Berkeley Law students may undertake a specialization in international law. The specialized curricular program ensures students develop a broad background in fundamental areas of law while receiving advanced training in international law. Students who meet the requirements are awarded a Certificate of Specialization in International Law in a ceremony in May, hosted by the Miller Institute.

FACULTY NEWS

Kenneth Bamberger and Deirdre Mulligan were awarded the 2016 Privacy Leadership Award by the International Association of Privacy Professionals for their comparative study of privacy regimes and corporate privacy practices, Privacy on the Ground: Driving Corporate Behavior in the US and Europe.

Alexa Koenig and Eric Stover were among the recipients of the 2015-16 UC Berkeley Presidential Chair Fellows Curriculum Enrichment Grants. Their plan is to redesign an interdisciplinary research course to immerse undergraduates from various disciplines in real-world human rights problem-solving and policy-making.

Alexa Koenig was also honored with the 2017 Phi Beta Kappa Northern California Association Teaching Excellence Award and Berkeley Law's 2017 Eleanor Swift Award for Public Service. With each award, she was recognized for her dedication to students and commitment to developing the next generation of human rights leaders.

Katerina Linos, Faculty Co-Director of the Miller Institute, was named to the 2017 class of Andrew Carnegie Fellows. She is one of 35 distinguished scholars, journalists, and authors, who were selected from among some 200 nominations for this honor. Professor Linos will pursue a research project titled "Refugees Misdirected: Information Barriers in the Exercise of Legal Rights," in which she will examine the European refugee crisis, study how misinformation and rumors are created and propagated, how they impede refugees' ability to claim basic human rights guaranteed to them under international law, and how new technologies can be used to close the communication gap.

She was also named to the Board of Editors of the American Journal of International Law for a four-year term.

Saira Mohamed's paper on "Leadership Crimes" was selected for the 2016 Junior Faculty Forum in International Law at New York University. The Forum is "closely modeled on the Yale/Stanford Junior Faculty Forum"; it pairs each junior faculty member who is selected to present with a senior scholar in the field who comments on the paper.

Professor Mohamed joined the Executive Council of the American Society of International Law (ASIL) in 2016. The Executive Council is the chief governing body of ASIL and oversees adoption of regulations, appropriation of money, the Society's publications, and other activities. She co-chaired the 2017 ASIL Annual Meeting Program.

Jamie O'Connell, Miller Institute Senior Fellow and Berkeley Law Lecturer in Residence, was selected as a Fulbright Senior Scholar for Spain. He taught at the University of Valencia School of Law for the 2016-17 academic year.
