Kitty Calavita is Chancellor’s Professor Emerita of Criminology, Law and Society at the University of California, Irvine and Distinguished Affiliated Scholar at the Center for the Study of Law and Society. Much of her work examines the interplay of political, ideological, and economic factors in the implementation of immigration law, the treatment of white-collar crime, and, most recently, prisoners’ rights. In all of these cases, she explores what they can tell us about relations of power and state processes. Her books include Inside the State: The Bracero Program, Immigration, and the INS (1992); Big Money Crime: Fraud and Politics in the Savings and Loan Industry (1997, with Pontell & Tillman); Immigrants at the Margins: Law, Race, and Exclusion in Southern Europe (2005); Invitation to Law & Society: An Introduction to the Study of Real Law (2010; 2nd edition, 2016); Appealing to Justice: Prisoner Grievances, Rights, and Carceral Logic (2015, with Valerie Jenness). Calavita was the recipient of the Harry J. Kalven Jr. Award of the Law & Society Association in 2015; she was inducted as the Thorsten Sellin Fellow of the American Academy of Political and Social Science in 2010; and she received the Albert J. Reiss, Jr. Award for Distinguished Scholarship from the Crime, Law, and Deviance Section of the American Sociological Association in 2001. She has served as President of the Law and Society Association (2001-02) and Chair of the Sociology of Law Section of the American Sociological Association (2007).

In the Conversations in Law and Society series, CSLS is creating a video archive of interviews with the founders and leading figures of the field of law and society. The conversations are taped before a live audience. Audience members are invited to ask questions following the formal interview. All of the previous 18 interviews with 20 distinguished law and society scholars are available on the CSLS website. Interviews have been conducted by Calvin Morrill, Lauren Edelman, Jonathan Simon, David Lieberman and Bob Kagan.
