ISRAEL AND THE GREAT POWERS: THE CASE OF CHINA

Ron Hassner in Conversation with Ehud Eiran

Israel Institute Visiting Professor Ehud Eiran (Haifa University) joins Professor Ron Hassner, the Helen Diller Family Chair in Israel Studies, for a conversation exploring Israel’s new alliance with China and what this might mean for geopolitics as we know it. This is the first in a series of talks examining Israel’s relationships with global powers.

Ehud Eiran
Ehud Eiran is an Associate Professor of International Relations at Haifa University. His research focuses on conflict and conflict resolution, governance, and policy in Israel and the Middle East. He is currently a Visiting Scholar in Political Science at Stanford University and an Israel Institute Visiting Faculty at UC Berkeley affiliated with the Berkeley Institute for Jewish Law and Israel Studies. This fall, he is teaching a course titled Israel’s Security and Foreign Relations.

Ron Hassner
Ron Hassner is a Chancellor's Professor of Political Science, the Helen Diller Family Chair in Israel Studies, and a Faculty Director at the Berkeley Institute for Jewish Law and Israel Studies. He teaches international conflict and religion, and he is the recipient of several teaching awards. Hassner’s research explores the role of ideas, practices and symbols in international security with particular attention to the relationship between religion and violence.

TIME
5:00PM - 6:15PM

Please register for this virtual event by clicking here.
Once registered, you will receive an event link. Please reach out to berkeley_institute@law.berkeley.edu with any questions.