Baker Botts

San Francisco has traditionally been viewed as the region's financial and cultural center, as well as a gateway to Asia, but increasingly it has become a destination for both established and start-up technology companies. The San Francisco office is a natural strategic development for the firm given the depth and breadth of our practices in the technology sector.

The San Francisco office draws upon the firm's reputation for outstanding client service and firm-wide expertise in areas such as technology, corporate, patent litigation, commercial litigation, including antitrust and securities, real estate, life sciences, and white collar to add significant value for our clients.

This is the second California office for Baker Botts. The Palo Alto office, which the firm opened in 2008, has since grown to almost 30 lawyers. The California offices are highly integrated and maintain the high level of professional excellence and client service that has been a hallmark of Baker Botts for 180 years.

Baker Botts has a well-earned reputation as a leader in patent prosecution and litigation in California and around the world. The San Francisco office and the firm's expansion in California continues to demonstrate Baker Botts' stature as a world-class technology law firm.
