

Sarah Gonzalez Bocinski

Sarah provides guidance and expertise to FUTURES’ economic justice initiatives and training and technical assistance projects related to workplace safety and economic opportunity for survivors of gender-based violence and harassment. Sarah brings over a decade of experience as an advocate, researcher, and technical assistance provider on issues related to economic justice and security, gender equity in the workplace, and improving access to quality education and employment opportunities for survivors and other marginalized populations.

Prior to joining FUTURES, Sarah oversaw the Economic Security for Survivors Project, a national training, technical assistance, and research project at the Institute for Women’s Policy Research and Wider Opportunities for Women. Sarah received her BA from Colgate University and MPP from the McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University.