

Miller Fellow: Sophie Lombardo

Faculty Sponsor: Professor Lindsay Freeman

Project: Ukraine and Syria War Crimes Investigation

Sophie Lombardo is a second-year law student interested in domestic and international human rights advocacy. While at Berkeley, she has served as a member of the Berkeley Journal of International Law and the International Human Rights Workshop.

Prior to law school, she worked for The Sentry, a team that seeks to disrupt the networks profiting from violence in Central and Eastern Africa. During her tenure with The Sentry, she investigated facilitators of corruption in South Sudan, focusing primarily on procurement fraud, risks to the developing mining sector, and the formation of military-owned companies.

As a Miller Fellow, Sophie will be supporting Professor Freeman's work investigating war crimes in Ukraine and Syria.