

The Honorable G. William & Ariadna Miller Institute for Global Challenges and the Law

2022-2023 Annual Report

The Miller Institute's Founders and Benefactors

Since 2007, the Honorable G. William and Ariadna Miller Institute for Global Challenges and the Law has been the heart of Berkeley Law's international enterprise. Founded and supported by the generosity of G. William and Ariadna Miller, the Institute is a research, teaching, and policy center on international and comparative law.

Through interdisciplinary collaborations and institutional partnerships, the Miller Institute addresses urgent challenges that demand creative global approaches, including promoting the rule of law, climate and energy justice, anti-corruption, and human rights. Our work is guided by Berkeley Law's distinguished international and comparative law faculty and informed by the expertise of scholars and practitioners worldwide. The approach is collaborative, interdisciplinary, and strategic. Our initiatives and advocacy work target critical situations where we are uniquely equipped to promote lasting change.

The Miller Institute is named as a tribute to the Honorable G. William Miller ('52) and his wife Ariadna Miller.

A celebrated Berkeley Law alumnus, G. William Miller served as the US Secretary of the Treasury under President Carter and the 11th Chairman of the Federal Reserve. He was an officer in the US Coast Guard, and led a distinguished career in business and investment banking.

Miller was a lifelong supporter of Berkeley Law, serving on the school's Campaign Cabinet. As national chairman of the Distinguished Professors Project in 1986, he helped raise $1.2 million to endow chairs honoring Berkeley Law professors. Miller was also the 1979 recipient of the Citation Award, the Berkeley Law Alumni Association's highest honor, and was recognized with the UC Berkeley Foundation Trustee's Citation in 1987.

He was deeply committed to enabling work to promote the rule of law as a means to ensure that nations share a set of values without sacrificing their individual cultures. The Miller Institute seeks to further his vision and mission of public service.

Our warmest thanks and grateful appreciation goes to Ariadna Miller for her ongoing sustaining support.

THE HONORABLE G.
WILLIAM MILLER
(1925-2006)

MRS. G. WILLIAM MILLER

Message from the Miller Institute's Faculty Co-Directors

Dear Colleagues, Students, and Friends of the Miller Institute,

We are thrilled to share our latest annual report. Major projects during this academic year included conferences and panels on a wide variety of international and comparative law topics, with a special focus on career development trainings and workshops for students. Sixteen Miller Fellow student scholars conducted empirical legal research under the direction of distinguished Berkeley Law professors. Our affiliated faculty published new writings on issues ranging from systemic racism to the emergency powers of international institutions in wartime. We are proud of the 27 outstanding students who earned the 2023 Certificate of Specialization in International Law.

It is a privilege to foster the international law community at Berkeley Law and beyond. We are, as always, most grateful for the dedicated and generous support of Mrs. G. William Miller and our dean, Erwin Chemerinsky.

Your feedback is warmly welcome. Enjoy!

With all best wishes,

Laurel E. Fletcher and Katerina Linos

Research and Collaboration

Course and Research Support

- Collaboration with Open Global Rights continued, featuring new blog posts in the Human Rights at a Crossroads series edited by Professor Laurel E. Fletcher, which explores theories of change and working methods of international human rights. Articles available in English and Spanish.
- Professor Laurel E. Fletcher and Professor Roxanna Altholz created and taught a new course, the Human Rights Practice Workshop, with fiscal support from Miller. Classes explored the role of today's human rights practitioners in a range of institutional settings, as the human rights movement faces increasing repression worldwide. Students learned from leading experts about relevant mechanisms and how to think critically about the promises and limitations of mobilizing human rights norms, strategies, and institutions.
- Miller grants supported other key faculty initiatives, including: Professor Roxanna Altholz's new undergraduate Legal Studies class, Mobilizing Human Rights Law in the US, designed to encourage under-represented students to consider law school; Professor Vinod Aggarwal's and Daniel Sargent's Academic Freedom in a Global Perspective Roundtable Series; and Professor Christopher Kutz's comparative research on prison law and environmental law.

Conference and Center Support

- Miller and the Center for Law, Energy, & the Environment co-hosted an October 14 lunch talk in support of the Harry and Jane Scheiber Lecture in Ocean Law and Policy: Climate Change and the Oceans: An Existential Challenge for International Law, featuring Professor Nilüfer Oral (Singapore), October 17, 2022
- The Human Rights Center received Miller support for events, programming and faculty projects, including Professor Alexa Koenig's book "Graphic: Trauma and Meaning in our Online Lives" and Professor Lindsay Freeman's work on Ukraine and Afghanistan fact-finding for evidentiary submission to the ICC
- Miller also contributed to Professor David Oppenheimer's work at the Berkeley Center on Comparative Equality and Anti-Discrimination Law

She was also named one of Time Magazine's 100 most influential people in 2022. Miller Institute Co-Director and Professor Laurel E. Fletcher joined Berkeley Law Professors Roxanna Altholz, Tayyiba Bajwa, and Saira Mohamed along with leading experts to explore intersections of international law, accountability for mass atrocities, and journalism.

Stefan A. Riesenfeld

(1908-1999)

Stefan Riesenfeld ('37) was a Berkeley Law professor and recognized authority in numerous legal specialties including international law, comparative law, property law, creditors' remedies and bankruptcy, administrative law, and legal history. A native of Germany, he came to Berkeley in 1935 to earn a law degree. Speaking German, French, and Italian and with two European law degrees to his credit, he learned English only while studying at Berkeley. Nonetheless, he graduated on time and near the top of his class, and went on to receive a doctorate in law at Harvard. Professor Riesenfeld joined the Berkeley faculty in 1952 after teaching at Harvard and the University of Minnesota.

He served as a legal advisor in the Panama Canal treaty negotiations, the recognition of Taiwan, and the Iran hostage case. While in his 70s, he represented the United States in three major cases before the International Court of Justice. As civilian legal advisor with the US Office of the High Commissioner in the mid-1940s, he helped prepare the West German constitution.

He also wrote the statute for Hawaii's workers' compensation regulations and helped develop human rights litigation in the United States. Each year, the Miller Institute supports a symposium and an award in Professor Riesenfeld's name to keep alive his commitment to rigorous scholarship in international law and his devotion to public service.

Opening Doors for Students

A cornerstone of Miller's program is promoting Berkeley JD, LLM, PhD, and JSD students into frontline opportunities to participate in international law as scholars, as practitioners, and as empirical researchers mentored by Berkeley Law faculty.

As a first-generation college and professional student, one of my biggest challenges has been to figure out how to get to where I want to be and access the resources necessary to get there. Attending this conference allowed me to better understand how legal academics frame issues, especially those related to pressing current event issues like the War in Ukraine or the conflicts in Taiwan and Ethiopia . . . I left the conference with this sense that I had demystified an area of legal academia and could start to navigate my way around it.
