

2025-2026 International and Comparative Law Classes UC Berkeley Law School

UC Berkeley
Miller Institute for Global
Challenges and the Law

Certificate of Specialization in International Law:

All courses listed or cross-listed in the International and Comparative Law category can count toward the International Law Certificate; other courses may count at the discretion of the International Law Certificate program. The International Law Certificate requires a 20- to 30-page research paper and 13 total International or Comparative Law units, including the foundational 4-unit International Law course offered in both Fall 2025 and Spring 2026.

Salzburg Cutler Fellowship:

Berkeley Law sends up to four students each Spring to the Salzburg Lloyd N. Cutler Fellows Program in International Law, which brings together students from top U.S. law schools with leading academics, judges, and practitioners in the field to examine critical issues of the day. A key component of the program is the preparation of a paper by each student Fellow for feedback from the other participants and expert mentors.

Courses with a paper or writing component are marked with an asterisk (*). Information may change.
